

AIRBOSSSES

DAVID SCHULTZ

David Schultz, President of David Schultz Airshows, is a pioneer in Airshow Standardization and is renowned in both the civilian- and military-aviation communities for his contributions to safety and performer briefings. David has provided Airboss duties at numerous military locations, and has extensive experience conducting airshows at airports and over-water locations.

For nearly three decades, David has instructed airshow performers and organizers on safety, operations and planning. He is a regular speaker at regional airshow meetings throughout North America, and holds annual coordination, planning and operations events across the United States.

GREG WITMER

Greg Witmer, Vice President of Operations for David Schultz Airshows, has been with Schultz Airshows for nearly 30 years, helming well over 300 airshows throughout the continental United States and the Caribbean. He holds a private pilot's license and is well-known and respected for his work with the Warbird communities.

Greg has provided Airboss duties at large beachfronts, U.S. Military installations, in highly complex airspaces.

He also leads David Schultz Airshows' Professional Ground Operations Staff-known to be among the best and most knowledgeable airshow crew worldwide-and is responsible for the upkeep and operational standards of their Ground Support Equipment.

Both David and Greg are authorized by the FAA to serve as a Recognized Air Boss – Multi Venue.

ANNOUNCER

“FAST” EDDIE LEUTER

Known for his personable and family-friendly approach, Fast Eddie has been announcing airshows for more than three decades. He has an extensive knowledge of aerobatic routines, warbirds and vintage aircraft.

Eddie began his career as a videographer for the Alpha Squadron Radio Control Model Airport Demonstrations Team, becoming a professional airshow announcer nine years later. He joined David Shultz Airshows in 2023, and when he isn't at an airshow, you can find him flying his remote-control model aircraft or cruising the countryside on his motorcycle.
